CORP COMMISSION
DOCKET CONTROL

ORIGINAL

Dear Chairman Stump and Commissioners,

Evo Energy Solutions is an independent third party testing company for the ENERGY STAR new homes program as well as a participating contractor in the APS and TEP/UniSource efficiency programs.

I've seen first hand the benefits that these programs have provided to my customers and ratepayers, saving them energy and improving comfort in their homes. I understand that these programs must be cost effective to succeed, however I urge you to consider all other factors beyond the cost effective analysis of these programs. These programs are the backbone for educating both consumers and contractors in efficient building practices and techniques. I test for several different air conditioning companies and at the beginning there was a lot of resistance to these programs. Slowly but surely they are beginning to understand the "Building Science" and how vital an efficient unit and duct system is to the performance and comfort of the home. We are closing the gap between what homeowners are expecting from their homes and what they are actually receiving. I fear without these programs many contractors will revert back to their old ways and the ratepayers will be the one's to suffer.

These programs are a vital part of the long-term sustainability for the state of Arizona. I want to thank and urge the commission to continue to support the existing energy efficiency program and policies like the Electric Energy Efficiency Standard. Please oppose any rollbacks or revisions to the standard that would undermine the great benefits and utility bill saving that these energy efficient programs currently deliver.

Like I tell my customers "It's all about sustainability, we can't afford to build more power plants!"

Sincerely,

Trevor Mills
